REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD.

There has been a change of teachers during the past school year in nearly all of our schools, chiefly for reasons over which the board had no more control than over the sickness of pupils and teachers that has detracted from the most complete results of school maintenance. For instance, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Lancey and Miss Hobbs, who have taught most successfully for many terms in town, declined re-election, and retired from teaching. Two teachers from out of the state declined re-election because of realizing a desire for situations nearer their homes. Two others were not achieving the results desired. The theory sometimes advanced that permanency of teachers would be gained here by the payment of higher wages would not have had effect in the situation instanced.

The cost to the district of teaching force must advance, however, because of the unwillingness of people to furnish living accommodations, and the consequent opportunity to increase the price. In some communities such cost has been increased 50 per cent within a few years and there must be an equivalent increase in wages to net the teacher an amount such as was previously realized. The demand for more pay for janitor services in the one-room buildings is constant, and the comparison with the days of a score of years ago cannot be withheld, when there was no such item of expense, the boys cheerfully building and keeping the fires and the girls as cheerfully keeping the rooms tidy. It must be said, however, that the decrease in old time public spirit is no greater in these respects than in our public affairs generally, and it explains in a large measure the marked increase in cost of conducting our public affairs, and consequent heavier burden of taxation.

Under the instruction of a vote at the last district meeting, the board is legally advised that the district has a complete title to the property on which stands the old school house in Suncook village as long as it is devoted to no use other than for school purposes. The lot was deeded to district No. 8 in 1852 for $35 and other consideration, and was acquired by the town district in 1886, to hold absolute "so long as it shall be used for a school house lot."

In accord with a vote of the district, the supply room, so designated, in the new Suncook school building, has been equipped for a school room, with 28 seats. Sessions have been held therein during the past two terms and the overcrowding of the second primary and intermediate rooms been thus relieved. The enrollment has fully equalled this increased seating capacity of the building during these two terms. There are but two pupils in this building to complete the full course of study next term. If those now in school and entitled to remain should continue, and there should be a class of beginners of the usual size or nearly that, it is readily seen that the accommodations of this building cannot meet the requirements. Under those circumstances, unless some other course is provided, the board can see no practical solution of such a problem other than to open up the old building to provide for the overflow.

Another large class were given diplomas for having completed the course of study last June, and the members rendered graduating exercises in Thompson hall, most creditably, to the highly satisfied audience that completely filled the hall.

A vacancy occurred in the board in September by the death of Truman Gilson, who was serving his second consecutive term. As all the arrangements had been completed for the fall term, the right of appointment to the vacancy was not exercised.

All repairs deemed advisable for the preservation of school property have been made, including the painting of the long-disused building at the borough. There has been no school at Buckstreet during the year, the two pupils for one term and one for the other two terms being transported to the village.

The school census required by law, taken in September by Frank T. Cheney, showed:

Number between 5 and 16 years, (Boys, 340; girls, 293.)	633
Number between 10 and 16 unable to read and write,	62
Number of these born in New Hampshire,	30
Number of these born elsewhere in United States,	19
Number of these born in foreign lands,	13
Number between 8 and 14 not in school pre- vious year,	62

Repeated and urgent demands were made by the Suncook Water Works Company for the payment of $26.50 water rent for service at the Suncook school building from July 1, 1908, to January 1, 1909, that had been furnished free under a contract with the town, but which expired in 1906. As there was no practical way to fill the drinking fountains and flushing the closets otherwise, it was at length paid, but has since been refunded. The condition of the water has been such that the drinking fountains and spray pipe have become so clogged as to require the services of a plumber more than once during the six months.

The annual school meeting will be held at the town hall Saturday, March 13, at 1.45 o'clock.

GEORGE W. FOWLER,

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the School Board:

I herewith submit to your consideration my second annual report, which is the eighth in the series of annual reports of superintendents of the Pembroke schools.

During the past year an attempt has been made to secure increased efficiency in school work. I have given the pupils examinations each term to determine the degree of progress, and the teachers have generally united in emphasizing thoroughness.

In spelling the progress is most marked. Last year the work done in this line was quite unsatisfactory. During this year constant drill has been given, especially upon the words in common use. Drill in phonics has been resumed in the lower grades. The results have been encouraging. Schools which last year averaged as low as 30 per cent in the spelling examination, now average 80 per cent and over. In every school there has been a decided advance.

In reading the results of the year's work are most encouraging in the lower grades. The pupils in the upper grades received their early training in a reading system which laid stress upon word recognition rather than getting thought from the printed page. The result is that they can recognize unfamiliar words with little difficulty and can read with comparative fluency, but they do not in many cases understand what they read. There is a resultant difficulty in teaching them geography, history, physiology and the other subjects which are learned from books. The pupils in the lower grades who have entered school since the abolition of the above-mentioned system, show greater power of thought getting, though they are somewhat inferior in ability to express the thought in oral reading. If we are to choose between these two elements, certainly the power to understand is preferable to the power to express. Neither element should be neglected, however, and we have been endeavoring to combine both.

In arithmetic special attention has been given to a mastery of the fundamental principles. The various kinds of business arithmetic are merely applications of the fundamental processes to business problems. First of all, then, it is necessary that the pupils should be so thoroughly grounded in these fundamental processes that accuracy is purely a mechanical matter. This element of accuracy in the fundamentals has been emphasized throughout the grades.

In the work of writing, copy-books have been discarded. The copy-books used advocated the medial slant script, a very good script. The teachers were writing a different hand, however, so the pupils saw examples of their ideal hand fifteen minutes each day and examples of another kind throughout the remainder of the day. None of the pupils ordinarily wrote in the style used in the copy-book. The copies are now made by the teachers and better results are obtained. The best results can be obtained only when the teacher insists upon carefulness and neatness in all written work. Slovenly habits contracted in five hours' work each day cannot be corrected in a fifteen minute writing exercise. This aspect of the work is being emphasized with good results.

In all the subjects studied from texts stress has been laid upon thoroughness. The thought of the year has been that it is better to know one thing than to glide over a dozen. There seems to be more positive knowledge in these fields than there has been before.

Our work in this line is not by any means completed. There is much yet to be done, but a start has been made and the results are promising. Our pupils are being prepared not for diplomas but for life, and the problems of life demand not a smattering of knowledge or ability to guess skillfully, but positive knowledge and efficiency.

Until recently little attention has been paid to the physical fitness of the pupil for study. If a pupil failed to "get his lessons," he was considered dull and failed to be promoted. Of late we have recognized that many if not nearly all of the deficiencies are caused by physical defects. Many of our pupils are suffering from ills of a chronic nature without knowledge of their condition. Some of these ills are purely general in character; other are such as to greatly hamper them in their school work. The ills most commonly found are adenoid growths and defective vision and hearing. I have from time to time examined the eyesight of the pupils. Parents of some of the children have been advised to consult an oculist. In other cases teachers have been advised where to seat their children so that they can work to the best advantage. If our pupils could be given regular and thorough medical examination the number of our so-called "dull pupils" would be greatly decreased.

Respectfully submitted,

EVERETT T. WHITFORD,

Superintendent of Schools.
